WELCOME TO METRO.US

KIMBERLY M. AQUILINA, WEB REPORTER

About 100 years ago, native Alaskan tribes were insulted when the tallest mountain in North America, Denali, was changed to Mount McKinley. President Barack Obama returned the peak to its rightful name in 2015. Recently, President Donald Trump asked Alaskan senators if they'd like him to reverse Obama's executive order. REFUGEES FACE MORE BARRIERS UNDER PLAN

The Trump administration will temporarily delay the processing of most refugees from 11 countries deemed to be high-risk while resuming refugee admissions for other countries, government officials said. According to a memo seen by Reuters, sent by the Trump administration to Congress on Tuesday ahead of the government announcement on new refugee vetting measures, the administration also will place on hold a program that allows for family reunification for some refugees resettled in the United States. The resettling of so-called following-to-join refugees will resume, according to the memo, once screening "enhancements have been implemented." The changes come at the close of a 120-day ban on most refugees that was ordered by President Donald Trump to allow a review of vetting processes.

NEW WAVE OF CYBER ATTACKS HITS RUSSIA

Cyberattacks using malware called "BadRabbit" hit Russia and other nations on Tuesday, affecting Russian Interfax news agency and causing flight delays at Ukraine's Odessa airport. While no major outages were reported, the U.S. government issued a warning on the attack, which followed campaigns in May and June that used similar malware and resulted in what some economists estimated are billions of dollars in losses. The attacks are disturbing because attackers quickly infected critical infrastructure, including transportation operators, indicating it was a "well-coordinated" campaign, said Robert Lipovsky, a researcher with cyber firm ESET. More than half the victims were in Russia, followed by Ukraine, Bulgaria, Turkey and Japan, according to ESET.

5 THINGS YOU NEED TO KNOW

Sen. Jeff Flake (R-AZ) speaks to reporters on Capitol Hill after announcing he will not seek re-election.

GOP SENATORS FIERCELY REBUKE TRUMP

Two Republican senators fiercely attacked President Donald Trump on Tuesday, accusing their fellow Republican of debasing U.S. politics and the country's standing abroad in extraordinary public criticisms of a sitting president. The onslaught from Jeff Flake and Bob Corker marked a sharp increase in tensions in what has been a fraught relationship between the president and congressional Republicans as Trump tries to enact his policy agenda. In a dramatic speech on the Senate floor, Flake repeatedly targeted Trump's style of governing, saying American politics had become "inured" to "reckless, outrageous and undignified" behavior from the White House. "The instinct to scapegoat and belittle threatens to turn us into a fearful, backward-looking people," said Flake, who announced he would not run for re-election next year. "I will not be complicit or silent," Flake said. By announcing he will be leaving when his term ends in early 2019, Flake has effectively freed himself up to speak his mind, without having one eye on voter reactions. Sen. Bob Corker, who has also said previously he is not running for re-election, earlier called Trump a liar who has damaged the country's standing, eviscerating the president with comments that stirred deepening divisions among Republicans. "The president has great difficulty with the truth on many issues," Corker told CNN.

TWITTER TO LABEL ELECTION ADS

Twitter Inc. said on Tuesday it would add labels to election-related advertisements and say who is behind each of them, after a threat of regulation from the United States over the lack of disclosure for political spending on social media. Twitter said in a blog post the company would launch a website so that people could see the identities of the buyers, targeting demographics and total ad spend by election advertisers, as well as information about all ads currently running on Twitter, election-related or otherwise. Silicon Valley social media firms and the political ads that run on their websites have generally been free of the disclaimers and other regulatory demands that U.S. authorities impose on television, radio and satellite services.

AMAZON RIVALS TURN TO LEGAL FINE PRINT

Whole Foods met a foe this summer during talks to lease retail space in a San Francisco mall: the Target next door. As City Center mall's largest tenant, Target had a say over changes to the property. According to people familiar with the lease discussions, Target balked at sharing the mall with Whole Foods because it feared competition from the chain's new owner, Amazon. Early attempts to persuade Target failed, and Whole Foods may now have to concede certain Amazon initiatives — such as lockers where customers can pick up goods ordered online — if it wants the location, the people said. Reuters examined real estate agreements with 20 retail landlords, lawyers and brokers show that the strings attached to operating in malls present an emerging and little-scrutinized challenge to Amazon's quest to reshape Whole Foods.

These are the most germ-riddled things New Yorkers touch: Report

According to a new study from the Men's Health "Gross" series, that subway pole is the least of your germ-filled worries.

NIKKI M. MASCALI

CITI BIKES ARE 45 TIMES GERMIER THAN A SUBWAY POLL, ACCORDING TO A STUDY BY MEN'S HEALTH'S "GROSS" SERIES.

It's no secret that New Yorkers love their Citi Bikes, but we bet they never thought about the plethora of germs that come along for the ride.

That's right — Citi Bikes are 45 times germier than a subway pole, according to a new study from the Men's Health's "Gross" series. Bet you didn't see that one coming.

In the report, Editor-in-Chief Matt Bean used a handheld germ counter to test a bunch of things many New Yorkers likely touch repeatedly on a daily basis.

"These things are consistently among the most-disgusting surfaces that we've tested in all of New York City," Bean said.

With the swipe of a swab, the counter determines how germ-riddled a surface may be. The lower the number, the less germier it is.

For example, Bean found that a Citi Bike handlebar had 1,512 germs, while a subway pole had 35.

But luckily, Bean found that most of the bacteria he detected is fairly harmless — but you should still scrub your paws several times a day because it's "one of the most important things we can do to stop the spread of germs and stay healthy," the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention said.

THE GERMIEST THINGS NEW YORKERS TOUCH

According to Men's Health's "Gross" series, these are the most germ-riddled surfaces New Yorkers touch — and remember, the lower the number, the fewer the germs:

1. Citi Bike handlebar: 1,512
2. Starbucks door handle: 1,090
3. LinkNYC kiosk: 807
4. Taxi handle: 424
5. Grand Central door knob: 45
6. Subway pole: 35

This subway car may look empty, but there are germs riding along with you — but not as many as the ones that go for that Citi Bike spin with you, Men's Health reported. ISTOCK

LinkNYC kiosks have been shown to be especially germey. ISTOCK

Here are the CDC's tips to make sure you're washing your hands correctly:

- Wet your hands with clean warm or cold running water and apply soap.
- Lather the soap by rubbing your hands together and be sure to get the backs of your hands, between fingers and under nails.
- Scrub away for at least 20 seconds. Need help? Sing "Happy Birthday" (to yourself, please) from start to finish twice.
- Rinse well under clean, running water.
- Air-dry your hands or use a clean towel.

Pay for transit maintenance with surcharge on rents, suggests former MTA official

Although it's obvious New York City's subway system remains in desperate need of repair, it's less clear how these renovations, and the required infrastructure maintenance, will be funded. During a "Fixing Mass Transit" event hosted by Crain's, a former official with the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, Michael Horodniceanu, suggested creating a "transit-maintenance nance district." By adding a $1.50 charge to the core business district's $60- to $70-per-square-foot rents, more than a billion dollars could be raised for transit upkeep, Horodniceanu said. DEVIN GANNON, 650FT

NYC BRIBERY TRIAL

Lawyers slam key witness in ex-NYC union head's bribery trial

Lawyers defending the former head of New York City's correction officers' union and a co-founder of defunct hedge fund Platinum Partners in a federal bribery trial told jurors on Tuesday that prosecutors' star witness was a liar.

The witness, Jona Reznitz, is expected to testify that he helped arrange bribes to Norman Seabrook, who once led the Correction Officers' Benevolent Association, in exchange for the investment of $20 million of union funds in Platinum. Reznitz has pleaded guilty in connection with a federal corruption investigation that has led to charges against police officers and others, and is cooperating with prosecutors.

Seabrook's lawyer, Paul Shechtman, told jurors in opening statements in Manhattan federal court that Reznitz, a California-born real estate developer, was "a serial liar, a pathological liar."

Henry Mazurek, who represents Platinum co-founder Murray Huberfeld, said Reznitz was seeking a "get out of jail free" card.

Seabrook and Huberfeld, both 57, are charged with honest services fraud and conspiracy.

Their lawyers spoke after Assistant U.S. Attorney Martin Bell laid out the case for the prosecution, telling jurors that Seabrook and Huberfeld worked out their bribery scheme after Reznitz introduced them in 2013.

Bell said Seabrook agreed to have the union invest in Platinum, and Huberfeld agreed to arrange for Seabrook to get kickbacks from the fund. Huberfeld no longer had an official position at Platinum at the time, but Bell said he still wielded influence.

In 2014, Seabrook caused $20 million of the union's pension and operating funds to be invested in Platinum, Bell said. In December of that year, Reznitz handed Seabrook $60,000 in cash stuffed in an $800 Salvatore Ferragamo bag, and Huberfeld had Platinum reimburse Reznitz, Bell said.

"Pure greed brought these men together," Bell said.

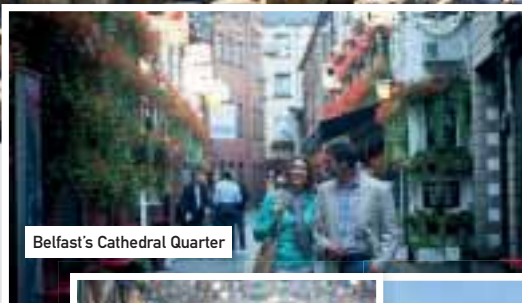

Last December, seven people affiliated with Platinum were charged with running a $1 billion fraud. They have pleaded not guilty. REUTERS

For longtime smoker — and Metro staffer — Peter Blankenstein, switching from cigarettes to vaping helped him “feel 100 percent better.”

NIKKI M. MASCALI
@NikkiMMascali
nikki.mascali@metro.us

Fourteen years after New York banned the use of tobacco products at public indoor spaces across the state, their electronic substitute is following suit.

Gov. Andrew Cuomo on Monday signed legislation that adds electronic cigarettes, also known as vapes, to the state's Clean Indoor Air Act.

“These products are marketed as healthier alternatives to cigarettes, but the reality is they also carry long-term risks to the health of users and those around them,” Cuomo said in a statement. “This measure closes another dangerous loophole in the law, creating a stronger, healthier New York for all.”

Under the current law, only tobacco products such as cigarettes, cigars and pipes are banned from public indoor areas such as offices, restaurants or bars. But by the end of November, e-cigarettes will be as well.

“E-cigarettes often contain toxic chemicals in addition to nicotine, something bystanders should not be forced to breathe,” said bill sponsor Kemp Hannon, a state senator from Nassau County. “New York must continue to work to regulate these devices in a common sense manner.”

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention data from 2016, more than two million students in U.S. middle and high schools used a vape within the past 30 days.

But the statewide ban will have little effect on New York City, as former Mayor Michael Bloomberg added vapes to the city's Smoke-Free Air Act in 2013.

Plus, about 70 percent of municipalities have such bans already in place, The New York Times reported, citing the American Lung Association.

While the CDC confirms vapes are less harmful than cigarettes, the aerosol used in e-cigarettes often includes nicotine, metals like lead, “volatile” organic compounds and cancer-causing agents, the agency said.

But for Metro staffer and longtime smoker Peter Blankenstein, switching to vaping helped him “feel 100 percent better.”

After smoking a pack and a half a day from 2006 to 2015, the Jersey City resident no longer wakes up “feeling like crap or coughing.” In fact, he hits the gym and now runs 2 to 3 miles a day.

“I can speak from personal experience that vaping is way better than cigarettes,” Blankenstein said.

Shari White, another Metro staffer from New Jersey, disagrees and has the same reaction to vape smoke that she does to cigarette smoke.

“I’m very sensitive to smell, and it makes my nose and throat burn,” she said. “No one knows the long-term damage that it can do to the respiratory system.”

That is true, according to Rob McConnell, an internal medicine specialist at the University of Southern California.

Because they’ve only been around for about 10 years, “people haven’t been using e-cigarettes long enough to answer that question,” McConnell told Science News for Students earlier this year.

ABORTION

US court sides with illegal immigrant teen seeking an abortion

A 17-year-old illegal immigrant in federal custody in Texas can have an abortion immediately despite the objections of President Donald Trump's administration, a U.S. appeals court decided on Tuesday.

The 6-3 ruling by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit split along ideological lines, with Democratic-appointed judges backing the teenager who requested an abortion and Republican appointees siding with the president.

"Surely the mere act of entry into the United States without documentation does not mean that an immigrant's body is no longer her or his own," Judge Patricia Millett wrote in an opinion.

After the ruling, her lawyers asked a judge to allow the girl, who is about 15 weeks pregnant, to have an abortion as soon as Wednesday. The judge then issued an order saying the girl should be allowed to go to an abortion clinic "promptly and without delay."

The appeals court ruling overturned a decision by a three-judge panel of the same court last Friday that had prevented the girl from having an abortion.

The teenager had sought and received a Texas court order to approve the abortion because she is under 18 and had scheduled a sonogram and consultation with a physician, as required by state law. But the government refused to let her leave the detention center to carry out those steps. REUTERS

Cannabis advocate's event sheds light on the 'prisoners of pot'

Thursday's event will discuss incarceration rates, sentencing and what happens after prison.

NIKKI M. MASCALI
@NikkiMMascali
nikki.mascali@metro.us

When most people think about advocates for the legalization of weed, they likely imagine tie-dye-wearing stoners just looking to get high without the hassle of the man.

That's the stigma that Michael Zaytsev, aka Mike Z, the founder and CEO of High NY, fights most.

"The biggest misconception about cannabis is that it's not that important or that it's just for 'getting high,'" Zaytsev told Metro. "This plant serves as life-saving medicine for thousands, if not millions, of people."

High NY was founded in 2014 and currently has more than 2,300 members. "It was formed to facilitate progressive conversations and collaborations between people in New York who care about cannabis issues," Zaytsev said.

Since its inception, High NY has produced dozens of education and networking events, from medical professionals discussing cannabis and public health, venture capitalists talking about investment opportunities and, on Thursday, the cost of the war on drugs for people of color.

Hosted in conjunction with the Cannabis Cultural Association, the panel discussion with Jawanza James Williams of VOCAL NY and Janos Marton of Just Leadership USA/CLOSErikers will shed light on incarceration rates, sentencing and what happens after prison "for those not facing a life sentence for a plant."

The discussion "is meant to inspire and empower the attendees to become advocates for criminal justice reform," Zaytsev said. "Sadly, New York City is the cannabis arrest capital of the world."

He may not be wrong, as the NYPD had a 9 percent increase in marijuana arrests last year, according to a February Politico report. The bulk of those arrested were people of color.

"It's no coincidence that cannabis prohibition and the so-called 'war on drugs' have devastated communities of color," Zaytsev said.

Zaytsev does have concerns about the future of legalization in Trump's America.

"The Trump administration — in particular Attorney General Jeff Sessions — seems to think cannabis is very dangerous and will not make America great again," he said. "I fear that they will enact policies based on their emotions and not based on outcomes that will benefit the American people."

"The fact is, this country was built on hemp. Our Founding Fathers grew it, and there was a time when it was illegal to not grow hemp. For over 100 years, Americans were even allowed to pay their taxes in hemp!" he added.

High NY "was formed to facilitate progressive conversations and collaborations ... about cannabis issues," said Michael Zaytsev, seen here giving a TED Talk. PROVIDED

Baby Boomers Benefitting From Knee Arthritis Treatment

How Cutting-Edge Treatments and Technology Are Helping Knee Arthritis Sufferers

New York City - Nothing is more true. A life with constant pain is not a life worth living. And if you can't stay active and do all the things you love - like walking, playing golf, tennis, vacationing etc. It's not really a life at all.

...the Pain Is More Like A Prison

And for generations, knee arthritis has given good, hard working people a life sentence of pain and suffering. To make things worse, slick marketers only add to the pain by promising wonder cures. Late night television and your mail box are filled with "wonder arthritis cures" that make wild claims and sound too good to be true . . . Because They Are

Nothing is worse than getting your hopes up - spending your hard earned money - only to be let down time after time.

It is easy to give up...

But while marketers were peddling "wonder cures," real doctors and researchers were hard at work trying to discover a real medical solution. Modern medicine eradicated small pox and polio. Through laser eye surgery, doctors can give almost blind people perfect 20/20 vision. The potential cures on the horizon with breakthroughs like stem cell and regenerative therapies are endless.

Solve The Riddle Of Arthritis Pain?

For the past 3 years, that's exactly what a medical clinic in New York City has been doing. The NYC Pain MD doctors have been able to help thousands of knee arthritis sufferers with cutting-edge treatments and technology older generations could only dream about. One of these treatments in particular has helped thousands of patients ease or eliminate pain and go back to doing their favorite activities like: walking, playing golf, tennis and many more. The treatment is called viscosupplementation. But wait. This is NOT the typical viscosupplementation. So if you are one of the many knee arthritis sufferers who already had viscosupplementation and did not get great results - what you are about to discover should be very important. to you in particular. It might even get you out of pain.

Here is why: During viscosupplementation, a special lubricating gel is put directly into your arthritic knee joint. This not only helps the knee joint to glide more smoothly, it acts as a cushion, protects the joint. and relieves a lot of pain. This is often referred to as "joint oil." In many cases, when done properly, this can dramatically lessen knee pain for up to 6 months and much longer in many cases.

And even better - if this treatment works for you the first time - it can be safely repeated when necessary and the results are often better for some.

Like Threading A Needle?

The key to this treatment being successful is actually getting the special lubricating gel directly into the joint where it can go to work. That's why the doctors at NYC Pain MD use very advanced digital imaging that allows them to see directly into the joint and make sure the lubricating gel "hits the spot" and the treatment has the best odds for success. Studies show that doctors doing these types of procedures without this special imaging actually miss the joint space up to one third of the time!

"I've had trouble with my knee walking. I'm a golfer and want to play golf but I couldn't. I made the call and went and it's the best thing I ever did. It's just - now I can play golf, I can walk, I can climb stairs, I can do things I did many years ago".

"It's the smartest thing ever did" "Since I've been going for the treatment for my knees I don't take any pills, I take not over the counter medication.."

"This a good alternative to surgery." "I am so glad I went. I'm so confident I feel so good about it and I recommend it to everybody."

William La Spina . Golf Enthusiast

(While NYC Pain MD cannot say all patients will respond like this we can say they are possible. Every patient is individual and results will vary. patient to patient.)

Why Treatment Can Fail

This is why viscosupplementation can fail for some people. It is also why many knee arthritis sufferers come to NYC Pain MD after failed treatments elsewhere... and are finally able to get relief. It is not uncommon for patients to travel hours for the advanced treatments given at NYC Pain MD.

Patients Should Be Assured About Precision Treatments

ONE BIG MISTAKE we have heard about is to use digital imaging or ultra-sound to mark the knee and then shut off the imaging and then not use it during the treatment procedure.!!! This means the doctor did not actually see if the lubricating gel went exactly where it was intended. The only way to know for sure if the procedure was as accurate as possible - and the lubricating gel went precisely into the joint space - is to use the digital imaging during the entire procedure. You can actually see the lubricating gel as it goes where it is needed. If you did not actually see it on the digital imaging screen - you do not know for sure if you actually got the proper treatment.

If you are going to have this treatment, make sure you ask your doctor if special digital imaging is used THROUGHOUT THE ENTIRE PROCEDURE. Not just in the beginning. If you have already had this procedure without this advanced imaging... Or if it was only used in the beginning... There is a good chance you did not get the results you could and should have.

"Clearly, technology is only as good as the doctors using it ... and clearly experience matters"

That's why, if you need heart surgery, you go to a heart surgeon... Not a general practitioner. At NYC Pain MD you will be seen by doctors who are specially trained in this procedure... Do it every day... and see thousands of patients every year. The latest technology combined with experienced and skilled doctors gets the best results possible.

Who Is This Treatment For?

This treatment is not for everyone. But it is for a lot of people who suffer with knee arthritis. Especially if you would like to avoid total knee replacement surgery and possible lessen or eliminate your pain. This treatment

Treatments Their Parents Could Only Dream About

Avoid Knee Replacement Surgery and Stay Active Into Their 50's, 60's, 70s and even 80s

may help you if you have knee pain due to arthritis. It may also help you if you do not have dramatic visible signs of arthritis on x-ray. Studies show that arthritis is present long before it can be seen on x-ray. In fact, the sooner you start this treatment the better. So, if you have knee pain - seeing one of the specially trained medical doctors at NYC Pain MD could be the answer you are looking for. This is important - this is especially for you if you have had viscosupplementation in the past without good results.

Many patients who did not have good results elsewhere are often able to get very favorable results because of the advanced technology and procedure experience at NYC Pain MD. In fact, some patients have decided to cancel knee surgery and others go back to the active life-style they had before it was stolen by all the pain.

How To Find Out If The Experts At NYC Pain MD Can Help You

If you have knee arthritis pain and would like to see if this treatment might help you - the experts at NYC Pain MD offer a complimentary screening appointment.

This screening will help determine if you are a candidate for treatment and also gives you a chance to get your questions answered.

If you are a candidate, you will leave knowing that you found the possible way to lessen or even eliminate your knee pain for 6 months or more.

There is no obligation and if you are not a candidate - the doctor will help you find the best doctors and treatments for your individual case.

To set up a complimentary screening, just call 800-741-5340. But if you want a screening, we recommend calling right now. Due to time limitations, the center can only offer a limited number of screenings per month. They decided to limit the number because they believe in giving every patient the individual time they deserve. If you have ever been to a doctor's office and been rushed or treated like a number - NYC Pain MD is different. We would consider this like a "throwback" to the old days of medicine. Before the days when HMO's and insurance companies (and now Obamacare) turned medicine into a business only and made it so difficult to care for patients the best way possible. If you are looking for a state-of-the-art medical clinic with "old school" ethics and values and treats patients

The Secret To Knee Pain Relief? With advances in medical science and technology the doctors at NYC Pain MD have been able to help thousands relieve their pain and get their active lifestyle back.

How To Get A No-Cost Screening & Find Out If This Knee Arthritis Treatment Is For You

The popularity of this treatment is startling. NYC Pain MD receives hundreds of patients calls weekly... patients looking for options other than surgery that really work. But because this is a real medical treatment - it is not for everyone. That's why the experts have setup an easy screening visit.. This screening will help determine if you are a candidate for additional examination and treatment. This screening is offered at no cost to the patient. All your questions answered and you will find out if this treatment is for you. Zero risk or obligation. Just call 800-741-5340. Tell them, "I would like the knee screening." They will take care of everything. Due to demand, spots are limited - call immediately to avoid unnecessary waiting. The number to call is: 800-741-5340 like the good 'ole days... then NYC Pain MD may be just what you've been looking for. Just call 800-741-5340 and secure your no obligation screening before someone else gets your spot. The risk is nothing. The potential is getting your pain-free life back.

The secret to success: Technology with Caring Doctors: NYC Pain MD combines cutting edge technology with highly trained professional and caring staff to help knee arthritis sufferers.

Fewer than a third of Americans back Trump tax plan: New poll

Majority of Republicans surveyed said cutting deficit more important than breaks for wealthy, corporations.

Fewer than a third of Americans support Donald Trump's tax-cut plan, according to a Reuters/Ipsos poll released on Tuesday, as the president went to Capitol Hill looking for Republican backing for his proposal to slash tax rates for individuals and companies.

As the 2018 midterm congressional election campaigns grow nearer, the poll found that more than two-thirds of registered voters said reducing the federal budget deficit is more important than cutting taxes for the wealthy or for corporations.

Trump's plan would balloon the deficit and add to the $20 trillion national debt, according to critics and independent analysts, but Republicans say the tax cuts proposed in the plan would be offset by economic growth that would generate new tax revenue.

Among Republicans surveyed, 63 percent said deficit reduction should take priority over tax cuts for corporations, while 75 percent said deficit reduction should take priority over tax cuts for the wealthy.

Democrats oppose Trump's plan, unveiled on Sept. 27, and say it is unfair to the poor and the working class.

The plan is still only a nine-page "framework." It was drafted in secret by Trump administration and congressional leaders. Formal legislation is in development.

Congressional leaders and Trump are trying to lock in support for the plan from rank-and-file Republicans, who were uninvolved in the framework drafting process.

Trump, who has yet to score a major legislative win since taking office in January, wants his plan to become law before year's end, a time frame that some policy analysts doubt is realistic.

More than half of adults surveyed in the poll agreed that "cutting taxes for the poor is more important than reducing the federal deficit," with 68 percent of Democrats and 47 percent of Republicans in accord with that statement, the poll showed.

The Oct. 20-23 poll found that only 15 percent of registered voters said Republicans in Congress should prioritize tax reform over other issues. About a quarter of those polled, including 23 percent of Democrats and 30 percent of Republicans, agreed that Congress should continue working on a healthcare bill.

Of those adults who said they had heard of the "tax reform plan recently proposed by congressional Republicans," just 28 percent said they support it, while 41 percent said they oppose it and another 31 percent said they do not know.

The poll found opinions on Trump's plan were sharply divided along party lines, with 56 percent of Republicans and just 9 percent of Democrats supporting it.

Of those who had heard of the plan, 14 percent said it would cut their taxes, while 30 percent said it would increase their taxes. Another 35 percent said their taxes would not change and 20 percent said they did not know how it would impact them.

The Reuters/Ipsos poll was conducted online in English in all 50 states. It gathered responses from 1,862 people, including 1,079 people who said they were aware of the Republican tax plan. It has a credibility interval, a measure of accuracy, of 3 percentage points.

Kid Rock isn't running for Senate

Remember that bleak and brief period of time when Kid Rock seemed to be considering a Senate run? Well, don't give up on America just yet, folks: It was just a ploy to promote his album.

The Trump supporting old man told Howard Stern on Tuesday morning that it was all, in fact, an effort to drum up press for some new music that is not "Bawitdaba."

"F—k no, I'm not running for Senate," he told Stern on his SiriusXM radio show.

Consider us #thankful.

"Are you kidding me? Who couldn't figure that out? I'm releasing a new album. Are you f—ing s—ing me?" I mean, isn't the real question whether or not Kid Rock was s—ting us?

Anyway, "Sweet Southern Sugar" comes out Nov. 3, if you're interested — and also you're stuck in 1998, a time where Kid Rock didn't have to make fake Senate bids in an attempt to be relevant.

Amber Heard has a lover Down Under

I applaud Amber Heard. Here is a woman who is constantly getting it in, boo-wise. It doesn't matter whether or not it's cuffing season — baby is getting cuffed out here!

At the end of September, Heard was caught on tape sharing some aggressive mouth-to-mouth action with a mystery man in Australia. Now, Page Six reports that the dude is "hunky stuntman Mana Hira Davis." OK!

Sources tell the site that the pair — who met on set of "Aquaman" in Australia — are inseparable, which sounds over the top. Apparently, these two have been seeing each other a few months, but have been keeping things "low-key." Which, LOL, Heard wouldn't know low-key if it gave her some aggressive mouth-to-mouth.

Heard, of course, most recently dated Elon Musk, and was once married to the human embodiment of patchouli, Johnny Depp.

Pratt, who of course feigns that he knows not what a foreword is, starts off pretty Pratt-like.

"When I was asked to write the foreword for 'Unqualified,' Anna's memoir, I immediately said yes without even thinking about it," he writes. "And boy did a lot happen between then and now. So much. Like ... sooooo much." That would be about the separation, eh?

Pratt goes on to bless Faris with compliments, like a good soon-to-be-ex-husband. "She is the amazing, effervescent, former short girl, theater nerd, camp counselor, crossing guard, headgear-wearing, feistmesiter, character-playing Anna Kay Faris."

Super nice, Pratt. Super nice.

Anna Faris' new book, "Unqualified" is finally hitting the shelves. And as promised, it includes a foreword from Chris Pratt — her husband of eight years from whom she recently separated. Not awkward, nope, not at

Meet the brains behind 'Happy Death Day'

Jason Blum — Hollywood producer and game-changer.

GREGORY WAKEMAN
@MetroNewYork
gregory.wakeman@metro.us

Over the last decade, Blumhouse Productions has had hit after hit, such as the "Paranormal Activity," "Insidious," "Sinister" and "Purge" franchises, and huge success with "Split" and critically acclaimed "Get Out." We decided it was high time to sit down with the man in charge, Jason Blum, before seeing "Happy Death Day" this Halloween season.

So how did this run of blockbusters come to be? The film that changed the course of the company the most was definitely the first "Purge." That's when people kind of looked up from their desks and went, "These guys are onto something." We did "Paranormal Activity," "Insidious," we did "Sinister" and then we did the first "Purge," and it was at that point that people realized we were taking a different approach.

What's your approach? When you empower your filmmakers and give them more creative control than they're used to getting — not around the rest of the world, that is, but in Hollywood — and you give them the final cut, they're more confident. They make bolder choices. They're more likely to solicit my advice, because they know they don't have to take it.

When they do ask for your direction, what do you give them?

We push our filmmakers to take chances. I always ask, "What have you always wanted to do in a movie that you haven't been able to do?" And then I'll say, "Try that." I think if you choose a commercial script, and then let the filmmakers add their voice to it, it often makes for a compelling movie.

What do you use as your own personal gut-check?

I feel like I always have Hitchcock in the back of my brain when I'm reading a script for one of our movies. "What would Hitchcock do today?" I'd go with that. Hitchcock and my dad — he was an art dealer, and there's a lot of similarities between being an art dealer and being a producer. It's about curating and managing artists, collectors and critics. Which is to say, show business.

"Happy Death Day" is out in cinemas now.

With Halloween right around the corner, the time is nigh for getting into the ghostly spirit: mind, body and twisted soul! Sometimes it feels like we're already living inside a horror movie, with the Great Trumpkin in office and "30 Rock" leaving Netflix, among other real-life terrors. But thanks to podcasts, we can tune in, tune out and live in denial of our frightening reality for a while — by spooking ourselves even more with stories of true crime, made-up horrors and everything in between.

"My Favorite Murder"

"Let's sit crooked and talk straight." Every week on "My Favorite Murder," hosts Georgia Hardstark and Karen Kilgariff exchange their favorite true-crime tales that typically end with, you guessed it, murder. Touching on everything from serial killers to cannibalism to "I Survived" recaps, HardKil captivates listeners with their truthful, unabashed storytelling and honest and relatable reactions ("Oh my God, can you describe my face right now?") myfavoritemurder.com

"Lore"

Ever wonder where your favorite scary stories got their origin?

"Lore" creator Aaron Mahnke has some answers. On the popular podcast, he explores the real-life roots of so many horror legends, from vampires to werewolves, and offers theories behind universal fears, like of the dark or hospitals. lorepodcast.com

Feet Hurt? Bunions? Hammertoes? Heel Pain?

Platelet Rich Plasma Therapy (PRP)

A new approach for treating Tendon Injuries for the Achilles, Tendonitis and Plantar Fasciitis (Heel and Arch Pain)

Take The Foot Health Checkup

- My toes are stretched, discolored and thickened.
- The sides of my toes dig into the skin and hurt.
- I have a large bump behind my big toe (or little toe) which is always red.
- I get an extremely painful "cramp" in the area of my third and fourth toes when wearing shoes.
- My toes aren't straight- they are all cocked-up, bent and hurt.
- I have painful calluses on the ball of my foot which keep building up.
- I have corns on my toes which get thick no matter what shoe size I wear.
- The bottom of my heel hurts all day, but it's worse when I step out of bed in the morning.
- I have cramps in my legs which always happen when I walk the same distance.
- My ankles are swollen most of the time.
- My feet are always dry and scaly- sometimes they itch.
- My feet just hurt all over when I stand or walk a lot.
- I have numbness, burning, infection, persistent pain, skin rashes, or open sores.

Rangers start officially a nightmare

A disastrous 10 games has left the Rangers rooted to the bottom of the Metropolitan Division.

JOE PANTORNO
@JoePantorno
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

Entering Tuesday night's slate of NHL games, no other team in the league has played more games than the 10 skated by the New York Rangers.

For a team that has made the postseason in seven consecutive years, it's expected for them to be near the top of the standings, especially in an opening month where 10 of their first 13 games are being played at home in Madison Square Garden.

There's just one little problem: The Rangers look lost.

A Monday night defeat at the hands of the San Jose Sharks dropped the Rangers to 2-6-2 on the season, good for just six points. Only the Edmonton Oilers, Arizona Coyotes and Montreal Canadiens had less going into Wednesday.

New York has lost six of its last seven games, including a 1-3-1 record during their current six-game home stand. The final game of that home stand comes Thursday against the Coyotes.

"You want to get points when you can at home and make this building a hard place to play, and we haven't been able to do that," defenseman Marc Staal said. "Definitely frustrating in that regard."

The difficult start is having an effect on some in the locker room, including veteran forward Rick Nash.

"[The frustration level is] high. It's been going on way longer than we wanted it to. It's tough right now," he said. "You could say all the clichés you want. We have to stick together and keep it simple. At the end of the day, we have to give ourselves a chance to win the games."

A sizable Achilles'

heel to the team's play so far this season has been their starts as they constantly find themselves playing catchup early on. In six of their first 10 games, the Rangers have allowed goals inside the opening six minutes of the first period. Five of them have come in under three minutes and two have come within the first 43 seconds.

One of those came Monday night when Logan Couture put the Sharks up 1-0 just 1:56 into the game.

"When we're in the position we're in — when we start the game chasing — it's just so much harder," goalie Henrik Lundqvist said. "Right now we're looking for a good feeling and to start the game chasing it's not easy."

It looks to be something that has settled in the back of the Rangers' collective minds.

"It's a little deflating to be scored on that early in a game," Staal said. "It's not something you can get out of your mind-set. ... It's tough. We need to be better as a team. It's just a mistake here or there on our first few shifts."

Just how bad has it been for the Blueshirts?

The New York Rangers assigned 22-year-old defenseman Anthony DeAngelo to the team's AHL minor-league affiliates in Hartford.

This being his first year with the Rangers after being dealt from the Arizona Coyotes during the offseason in the Antti Raanta Derek Stepan deal, DeAngelo appeared in eight of New York's first 10 games this season. He recorded an assist with a minus-4 rating.

But the Rangers' horrid start has forced the team to shake things up. At 2-6-2 after their first 10 games of the season, the defense has proven to be a major problem. Entering Tuesday night's slate of games, New York led the league with 163 giveaways with seven Rangers appearing in the league's top 25.

The Rangers went back to dressing six defensemen on Tuesday. GETTY IMAGES

Ryan McDonagh is tied for the most turnovers with 19 alongside San Jose Sharks blueliner Brent Burns while Kevin Shattenkirk is two behind with 17.

DeAngelo has 10 himself, tied for 22nd, but his 12:38 of average ice time per game is the lowest among the league's top 97 turnover leaders. Most of that ice time was coming because of head coach Alain Vigneault's decision to carry seven defensemen instead of the conventional six. Given this transaction, it looks like the Rangers will be going back to a gameday roster with 12 forwards.

The Rangers look to be taking caution with their young defensive prospect, ensuring he irons out his issues in the minors instead of losing confidence while in the pros. However, New York's "win now" approach when dealing Raanta and Stepan has not amounted to much considering the one player they got in return is going down to the AHL.

Aries Go with the flow no matter what happens. Reach out with understanding and compassion to find a way to overcome any dilemma that crops up.

Taurus Travel and communication are highlighted. Associating with people from different backgrounds will be eye-opening. Collaboration will help you find solutions.

Gemini Get whatever job is expected of you out of the way. Look for alternative ways to use your skills, qualifications and experience to get ahead.

Cancer If you share your thoughts and emotions, you will resolve issues that have been bothering you. A business trip or conference will lead to a window of opportunity.

Leo Don't raise your temper. Keep your promises, but don't feel you must go above and beyond the call of duty to please others. Take time to relax and pamper yourself.

Virgo Have alternative ideas ready if someone opposes what you want to do. Your strength will come from well-laid plans and the gumption to see matters through.

Libra You'll find it difficult to deal with peers or relatives. Don't get into an emotional dispute. You are best off letting matters settle before you address issues.

Scorpio Clear a space at home or make a move that is conducive to following a lifelong dream. Travel, education and communication will help you reach your goal.

Sagittarius If you want to draw attention to something you believe in, you must take action. If you have an important presentation coming up, make sure it's visually captivating.

Capricorn Get down to business and don't leave anything unfinished. Your precision and attention to detail will be impressive and will help you gain respect and confidence.

Aquarius Get along with others and get things done. Avoid overspending or making unrealistic promises. Live up to your own expectations, not to the expectations of others.

Pisces A schedule that will allow you to explore your options is favored. Change may entice you, but know what you are getting into before you take flight. EUGENIA LAST
